It's been fun,

Good year next year.
See you Love ya!
Bob

More than crowded corridors, more than tattered textbooks, more than college catalogues, Fairfax High is a spirit. The things we will remember will not be the things we can say, touch, or see—but the intangibles of Fairfax High School. This is what we have tried to disclose in your 1958 SAMPLER.

In working together in one body, you will recall a new harmony in all we attempted. You will look back on the year of '58 with a proud recollection of successful undertakings on the part of all.

As you read and go through your annual, unforgettable moments will be brought to mind—while reading between the lines will afford you many more hours of pleasure. You will see pictures we could never have possibly photographed. You will remember more than the words printed herein shall ever suggest. You will remember the impressions given you by Fairfax High School.

Hard work and cooperation will always be basic requirements in making and keeping our school what we want it to be. The present student body has made a fine contribution, in keeping with the highest aims of education. The will of youth for learning and doing endures as our great pledge against the future.

FAIRFAX HIGH SCHOOL

We Affectionately
Dedicate
the 1958 SAMPLER
to
RITA W. MORGAN

Words usually serve our purpose, but sometimes they are inadequate. We mean many things when we dedicate our 1958 SAMPLER to Rita W. Morgan. Miss Morgan is many things to many people here at Fairfax; but to all, her name signifies warmth, charm, and poise. To all her English pupils, she gave an understanding and appreciation of new forms of literature, a grasp of grammar fundamentals, and an interest in creative writing. To those who worked with her as sponsor of the FARE FAC SAMPLER, she was inspiration, strength, and guidance. Everywhere her cheerful smile is always ready, always sincere—always appreciated. Miss Morgan means a great deal to all of us: we hope that we will always mean something to her.

ADMINISTRATION . . .

A year of guidance, inspiration, and achievement

A smooth-running and efficient high school is the basic interest of the administration. Maintaining character is their fundamental aim for this year. Each member shows in his own way the importance of honesty, loyalty, belief, fairness, and courage. They help by attending our games and pep rallies and in chaperoning the year's big dances. One will always find an ever-present willingness to be helpful and an untold consideration toward each student and his individual problem. Much credit is due those who thoughtfully devote their time and effort toward the fulfillment of our ideals. Because they take such an active interest in our well being, the memories we receive while at Fairfax are rewarding ones. It is indeed beneficial to the students to have such a dependable group of people behind the scenes. The administration does much to formulate the policies of Fairfax High School.

Members of the Fairfax County School Board meet to discuss appropriations for the coming year.

Their creative leadership and unremitting faith in us can but inspire and influence us to a greater achievement and commendable endeavor. We shall long remember them for their vision, their inspiration, and their ever-friendly and generous counsel.

Miss Theodora C. Cox

With gratitude for her twelve years as a sponsor, counselor, advisor, and teacher, the 1958 Fare Fac Sampler proudly recognizes Miss Theodora C. Cox. With her vast knowledge of classical prose and poetry, she guided, encouraged, and inspired us; working devotedly with her Latin I and Latin II pupils for many of these twelve years, Miss Cox became the sponsor of one of the school's largest organized activities —the Latin Club. Though we shall miss her steadfast guidance, the imprint of her influence will always be stamped clearly upon us.

CLASSES...

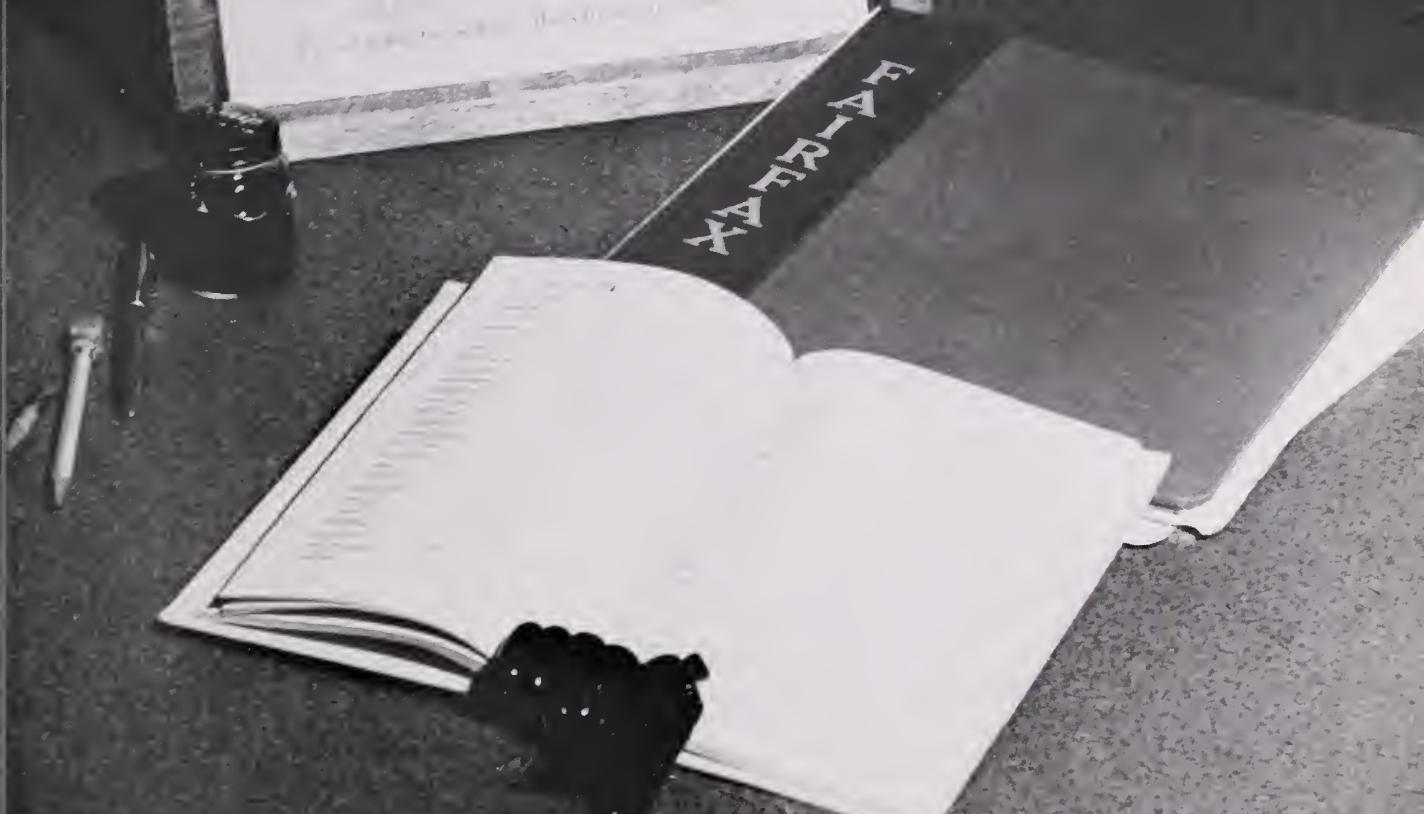

A year of decisions

Fairfax High, our school, dedicated to learning . . . not only in studies, but in friendship and sportsmanship, too. How well we remember the classrooms filled with wondering, inquiring minds . . . the appreciation we had for our teachers. We remember the Christmas parties and school dances, and the warm companionship of friends with similar tastes and interests. The daily routine of high school life takes a rosy and cheery glow as we think of the pep rallies, bon fires, followed by a football game. We remember the Junior and Senior plays and the hard work the students put into them. We cherish the successes we made as we grew from the unnoticeable eighth-grader to the looked-up-to-Senior. Fondly we'll remember the years at Fairfax High. Soon our recollections grow dim and memories fade but our impressions are there engraved in our hearts.

SENIORS...

A year of leadership

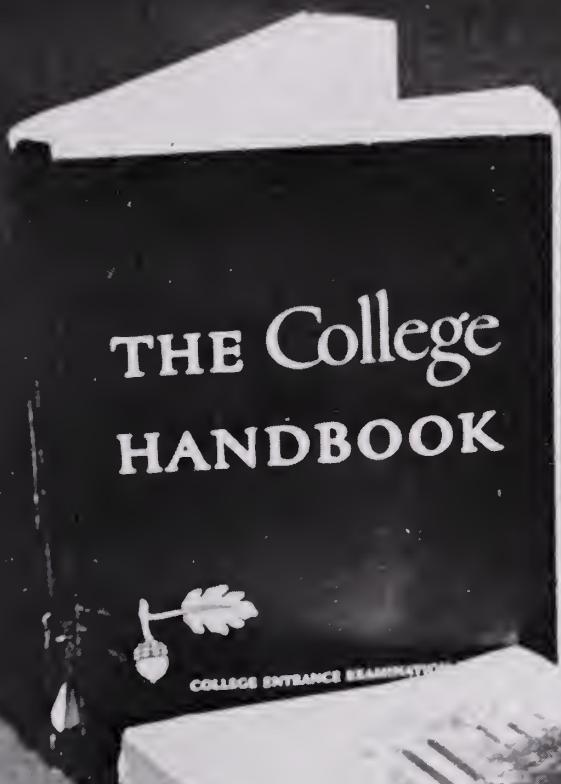

The other years we were young and unaware There were unfamiliar hallways and teachers A kaleidoscopic whirl of classes, and, always the knowledge that built itself to the present, the year in which our many moods form numerous patterns. Now is the responsibility of mature decision. Now that we are deeply conscious of the debt we owe to our devoted teachers and parents, we strive for the highest attainable goals. Our memories are walking all around us cheering, studying, and organizing. They were just starting; now they are coming back. Our ways and characteristics are those that have always been, and will be for those to come. So it is with the dignity of the cap and gown in mind that we, the graduating class, take a long last look back on our school, the people who were in it, and the impressions that will remain ours forever.

A year of preparation

The new year started with a flurry of hellos to old friends we hadn't seen all summer. Brand new classes and experiences left us wondering whether we liked being Juniors. Homework done on the bus in the morning was handed in on time but we still did chemistry in geometry and geometry in English. Sports, cheerleading, and other extra-curricular activities gave us permission to drive to school. The-end-of-the-year rush with rings, the prom, and final exams kept us in a dither. We lived through anxious moments before the first night of the play and were relieved after the last curtain call. After arriving home at 6:30 A.M. from the prom, we were ready for a long summer's rest. Our Junior year ended, we signed good-bye to the Seniors in yearbooks, and we wondered whether we would do as well as they in Senior responsibilities.

SOPHOMORES...

A year of planning and organizing

With great expectations and enthusiasm the Sophomore Class faced the new year. These expectations of things to come were borne out as the year moved ahead. We were faced with many new and different situations. Biology and second courses in algebra became our major concern. We walked many a mile looking for a rare bug or hunting a leaf. Spanish and Latin took on a new meaning and called for some sleepless nights. The increased responsibilities in Student Government brought the realization that next year our class would play an even larger part in our school life. Our returning athletes brought strength and experience to the Varsity squads, giving us a well earned pride. Our part in graduation was limited, but we felt close to those who were leaving as we decorated the auditorium for the final exercises. As our Sophomore year came to a close with final exams and election of class officers, we truly felt as one with the spirit of F.H.S. which had strengthened and guided us throughout the year.

A year of promise

As we entered Fairfax High School on the first day, we revelled in the knowledge that we were really in high school. Suddenly we found ourselves in the midst of gay confusion. Classes and studies were strange, but warm friendships remained the same. We were still new, and yet more experienced. With a growing sense of responsibility, we joined clubs and held offices in school organizations. It was with real pride that we looked to our motto, SEMPER PROGRE-DIENS, always progressing. It was there before us whether we sought inspiration or reassurance. As a class, we were never discouraged for long, and no matter what our feelings, we held our school in high esteem and recognized it as a place of learning. Our loyalty was exemplified by the spirit and pep we showed as we whole-heartedly supported Varsity and Jay Vee teams. We were drawn closer together through the Freshman dance and other activities. All too quickly the year ended, leaving us with seemingly a hundred things left undone. As we signed yearbooks, we recalled the many completed projects, the studies we had mastered and the friends we had made. It is with these thoughts, still fresh in our minds, that we looked forward to the coming summer.

EIGHTH GRADE...

A year of orientation

Unaccustomed to the trials of high school life, we entered Fairfax High full of undaunted spirits and high hopes for the future. Meeting enthusiasm in pep rallies and cavalcades, we added our support to the teams, and cheered our own through victory and defeat. Though seldom together as a whole, due to the addition of classes at Jermantown, we found unity through mutual interests and newness that was common to all of us. By forming new friendships and re-establishing old ones, we found companionship through similar achievements and disappointments. After gaining confidence in ourselves and our class, we chose qualified leaders to guide us through our first year at Fairfax. Newness disappeared and familiarity took its place. The lost feeling was replaced by one of security in our newfound home. Scenes of crowded halls, over-stuffed lockers, shuttle-buses, quonset huts, and Jermantown are stamped into our memories.

Now which way . . . That room was here a minute ago.

Rebel spirit surging

That vehement spirit! It shined at football and basketball games. It sparked Student Government, the Honor Societies, Clubs, Publications, the Band, and the Chorus. Class hours were only a part of our daily schedule. After 3:20 we attended meetings, practices, striving to meet our goals, obligations, and deadlines. With the Rebel Spirit to guide us, we worked to finance scholarships, uniforms, and band instruments, to organize field trips and parades, to develop leadership and co-operation. We earned our honors through Student Government, Fare Fac Sampler, Fair Facts, Debate Club, Discussion Club, F.H.A., Music, and Honor Societies. Finally as the year slowly came to a close, we found our spirit flying high with the accomplishments of the Fairfax Year of Achievement.

Presiding at the first Student Government meeting is Mary Lou Clinton, Treasurer; Dick Keller, President; and Candy Love, Secretary.

Student Government . . .

Mr. Dowling, Mrs. French, and Mr. Doub, our Advisors, meet to discuss our newly-organized Senate.

Before the students had even thought of coming back to school, Student Government had already organized a program for the year. Since we feel that Student Government does much to keep our school life running smoothly, we always put our best foot forward to do our utmost for Fairfax. Our Student Government makes everyone feel the important role that each of us plays in governing ourselves.

Dick Keller, our Student Government President, studies the hall problem.

Whether the task set before us was sheer drudgery or an exciting challenge, we met it with full awareness of our responsibility. Boldness and imagination were ever-present . . . boldness to find the materials that would insure success, and imagination to look beyond the present.

Fare Fac Sampler . . . a busy world

Arthur Conover, Jan Gano, Ken Kawalski, Janet Jones, Sports Editors, find the action shots rather amusing.

In order to assure a top-quality yearbook, the Sampler staff started production early in the summer. After choosing the theme, work was started on copy and running headlines. Our world became a never-ending go-round of soliciting ads, gathering old news, scheduling and handling pictures, writing copy, rewriting, typing, proofreading, and retyping. Our photographers were always on hand at all events and editors kept careful check on club and class activities. Deadline worries kept us all scribbling feverishly at the last minute. Then came the final hectic days of activity, and suddenly all was quiet. The '58 Sampler had gone to press.

Our first issue, distributed free to families of nineteen hundred Rebels, was one of ten big eight-page productions. From that mysterious little room above the library, editors, the sponsor, and numerous reporters worked night and day creating the Rebel paper. Deadlines improved our timing. Writing features, editorials, and planning the layouts labeled us real newspapermen. Our studies were our most important responsibility but the newspaper held our first interest.

Fairfax Band . . . concert

The Fairfax Band, our band, lifts our school spirit high each time we hear the Alma Mater, or see the band members in their blue and gray uniforms marching at our games. We are proud to claim them as a part of Fairfax High School as we view their great accomplishments. From the first pep rally to the Pomp and Circumstance, at graduation, the Fairfax band is a superior part of the backbone of Fairfax High School.

singing our way to better school spirit

We reached greater heights of achievement under our new director, Mr. Wygal. Assemblies were often enriched with the singing of school songs by the Choir and student body. The County Choral Clinic and our Fairfax High Choral Clinic gave all of us additional opportunities to study and enjoy music. Our Christmas, Clinic, and Spring concerts made it possible for us to share our music with our families and friends. Happy memories this year with the Choir will always be with us.

the songs of every era

Our music was enjoyed by all while we in turn collected happy memories of successful concerts and assemblies. The Choral Department added the Boys Chorus, led by Mr. Russell, to its already extensive program. Under Mr. Wygal's able direction the Girls' Chorus continued its high standards of choral music. The Eighth Graders found wonderful opportunities for fun and achievement in their Glee Club. We all worked hard and succeeded in making this year of music at Fairfax High a memorable one.

The Senior Choir led our spirits at Christmas.

National Honor Society . . . mature development through achievement

Our election to the Gordon E. Smith chapter of the National Honor Society was just a beginning. Only after the first thrill, the recognition of our friends, and the reception in the Home Ec living room, did we realize that our dreams had come true. With the realization of the honor and responsibility that lay ahead we resolved to make the ideals of the Society, Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service, a part of our lives. The Christmas card sale and the Friday morning devotions were two of the ways we served our school. Our assembly programs at Christmas and Easter were truly inspirational to the student body. Membership proved to be more than an empty honor.

Miss Marshall, Sponsor; Judy Bowden, President; Vicki Young, Vice; Lance Bonnet, Treasurer, and Anne Connery, Secretary, plan an Honor Society induction.

Lance Bonnet and Ruth Peterson work hard to keep the books balanced during the annual Christmas card sale.

This organization is based on five ideals—Character, Citizenship, Scholarship, leadership, and Service. Chosen as outstanding members of our class and examples of these ideals, we proudly assumed our responsibilities by doing our share in Friday morning devotionals, Christmas and Easter Chapel services. We grew in spirit and knowledge. We replenished our treasury by doing our share in the Christmas card sale. Junior Honor Society added purpose to our lives.

Latin Club . . . learning the ways of Rome

Miss Bowler meets with Tom Piper, George Chinn, and William Baughman to make plans for Gens Togata.

The Gens Togata proved that they were real Romans. They learned to live and relax as the Romans did. This was accomplished by attending the state conventions and the festive Latin Banquet. More important, they achieved the Lingua Latina under the capable leadership of Miss Cox and Miss Bowler. One of the aims of the year was to raise money for the scholarship to be given to a student who made a G average in Latin and who aims to take Latin in college.

The "Rebel Riders," brand new this year, spent an exciting as well as an educational term, having had some of their members represented in the horse show at Madera School. Their main activities included sponsoring a "Gynkana Show" and participating in local horse shows, leaving most of their general meetings to trail rides and speakers.

Science Club . . . perfecting scientific skills and knowledge

Our common interest was science, either as a hobby or a future profession. We are dedicated to the development of science, to give service to our community and nation, and to understand its importance in our lives. By overcoming the difficulties of complicated and elaborate apparatus, we are able to attempt more intricate experiments. By contributing to the advancement of scientific learning we are fulfilling one of the greatest needs of our nation.

Eric Prichard, Janice Fullerton, Anthony Powell, Penny Harper, Jim Switz, and Mr. Mizell.

The club was open this year to anyone who likes to talk, talk, talk; we did just that. Meeting and talking with students from other schools gave us new insight into current events. We carefully considered new ideas as we tried to prove our points with logical discussion. We found by the end of the year that all our "gabbing" really paid off in improved speaking, clearer ideas, and more poise.

Our problem, Foreign Aid, required us to do much research and studying. We learned our subject well, and confidently opposed various schools as we debated our way to the championship. We ended a fine year by receiving top honors in the Northern Virginia Debate League.

We are truly proud of the new Drill Team of F.H.S. We, the spectators, can never know of the long hours spent in practice, or the sore limbs which resulted from an exhausting performance. We can only benefit from the enthusiasm and spirit shown by these girls as they marched at the halves of football and basketball games. The teams, too, gratefully acknowledge the part which the Rebelettes played in fostering school spirit.

Waving banners announce a new tradition.

Key Club . . . its first full year of service

The Key Club is dedicated to service, service in the school and in the community. The Lost and Found, Easter Seals and a Cerebral Palsy drive helped not only the students and crippled children but made us realize that giving was better than receiving. Our officers spent afternoons after school planning ways to raise and then spend money. The Ugly Contest started our bank roll on the way up so we could give a deserving Senior a substantial grant at graduation time. We felt we had accomplished our job this year when school was over.

Much was gained from our guest speakers and discussions on teaching. Through our assembly during American Education Week, we stimulated interest in education. Our visits to colleges, meetings, swimming and bowling parties helped to make this year enjoyable.

Throughout the year, we increased our knowledge and appreciation of art by studying famous artists and their paintings. We also learned new techniques in oil painting, earned certificates of award in the Soroptimist Club, and visited the National Gallery of Art and the Corcoran Art Gallery.

A new one to our list of clubs, the Modeling Club brought more poise and grace to its members as the days passed into memories. At the end of the year they had learned about fashions, modeling, and good grooming, and had presented a fashion show.

Cafeteria Workers and Custodians . . . for better health and better living

Planning menus, cooking food, baking luscious desserts, and cleaning up kept them quite busy a good part of the day. They never failed to please and fill our growling stomachs. We found we could always depend on them to help with club dinners and other outside activity meals.

Each morning we walked down spotless halls, but somehow each evening we left another job to be done. Yes, they kept Fairfax High clean. From early morning till late evening, they could be found mending our locks, desks, changing light bulbs, sweeping, and doing almost anything that needed to be done around the school. They, too, kept Fairfax High in good shape.

Mr. Whitmer, Head Custodian.

ATHLETICS...

Hard working teams, spirit, and coaches

Fight team fight! That was our challenging motto for this year. Whether we won or lost, it was with equally good sportsmanship. Our spirit remained high while we proved we were good athletes. Cheering crowds, yelling cheerleaders, muscular coordination, and a knowledge of the game led our teams to a victorious year. Our vast amount of enthusiasm provided an outlet for our numerous energies. We gained physical and mental adaptness through scrimmages, constant practice, and tiring but rewarding games. Our first football victory over Washington and Lee in all these years seemed to spark our winnings for the year. Sportsmanship, cooperation and a willingness to work unified the teams, student body, and faculty. As we look back on this year, we will never forget the blaring horns of the cavalades, the excitement of the team as they ran out on the field, and the half-time programs with the cheerleaders, majorettes, band, and our new drill team. All of us, coaches, players, and spectators gained a new sense of accomplishment.

Barbara Davis yells, "If Pendley can't do it, Kowalski can!"

"Go, Rebels, Go!" We all saw the signs which were plastered all over the halls before each game and heard the pep talks over the public address system. Remember the cafeteria pep rallies and how we stacked chairs on the tables to make room for our spirit and then yelled and yelled and yelled? These ideas of promoting spirit were all new to Fairfax this year and who thought of them, our "famous six," of course! Bright, peppy, cheerful, "on the ball," what other words could be used to describe this cute "half-dozen"? We were all proud of them and glad to follow their spirited leadership.

Monogram Club . . . an organization of spirited rebels

An organization of sports-minded gals working for their school. The gals with the big blue "F's" who proudly display them on their white sweaters. Good grades, spirit, hard team work, were a few of the ingredients necessary for membership, and all qualities of these girls. Initiation, both hectic and serious, provided amusement for all the students. Meetings were for work, but they were also entertaining. Social activities included bowling, swimming, and skating parties. The Awards presented to the Seniors at the end of each year are just a few of the many goals these girls work for through their club.

Varsity Football . . . initial victories leading to one of our finest seasons

The first victory ever over rival Washington and Lee and a hard fought tie with Hammond highlighted a sparkling season turned in by the Rebels. Coaches Ted Keller and Jim Moeller led the team to a 7-1-2 record, the finest at Fairfax in many years. The defensive club was outstanding, placing second only to State champion Jefferson Senior. The offensive club was no slouch either. Duncan MacAdam tied for county scoring honors and Gale Gibson and Gordon Bennett made almost everybody's All Star Team. The news of the loss of our head coach, Mr. Keller, was greeted with dismay, but we are sure our loss will be Randolph Macon's gain.

Junior Varsity . . . experience paying off

A good offense, a good defense, and plenty of teamwork gave the Junior Rebels an almost perfect season. Their only loss came at the hands of Annandale on a muddy field which slowed both teams down. Coaches Helmbreck and Stalnake were proud of the hustle and the sportsmanship that the boys showed throughout the season. The boys worked hard and the coaches feel that many of them will be a big help to the Varsity next year.

The vaunted Rebel defense shows up on the Junior Varsity, too.

Eighth Grade . . . acquiring new skills

This first year is always one of building and learning, teamwork, sportsmanship, confidence, and poise. Coaches Kerlin and Grover greeted a throng of inexperienced players at the season's onset, and at season's end they had molded many potential Junior Varsity stalwarts. Although the coaches were disappointed in the poor 1-4-1 record of the team, they praised the several sparkling efforts of the boys.

Varsity Hockey . . . All season, exhibiting sportsmanship

The Rebellettes led school spirit by taking good sportsmanship and fellowship to every school they visited. Good times on the bus, dirty uniforms, bruised knees, laps around the field, and hard practice seemed to fill every moment of our time. "Come on. Let's win this one, too," was the teams' motto as each game became a new challenge—a challenge met despite muddy fields and flu.

The Rebels had a disappointing season this year, but the many returning lettermen give hope for a successful season next year. They had an over-all record of five wins and thirteen losses. They did, however, show up well in several games. The team was composed almost entirely of Juniors, but there were four Seniors also. Oscar Keplinger put on a two game scoring outburst of seventy points, scoring thirty-eight points against Groveton to set a new school record. Oscar and Walt Pendley were the only Rebels with double figure averages. Next year's team will be made up almost entirely of veteran Seniors and they should have a very good season.

J.V. Basketball . . . acquiring new skills and victories

The Junior Varsity team, predominantly freshmen, played almost exclusively teams which packed their lineups with Juniors, but they took everything their opponents had and threw it right back at them. They finished with an eight won, eight loss record and four of those losses were by less than five points. Coach Stalnaker has more than earned a job in the Varsity coaching ranks for his fine work with both this year's and last year's Junior Varsity teams.

Eighth Grade . . . developing new skills the hard way

The Eighth Grade, quarterbacked by Bruce Keily, had a disappointing one win, seven loss record. They were, however, involved in several close contests in which the score could have gone either way. Coach Williams' team was hampered in the fact that few of the boys had played basketball before coming to High School. The Eighth Grade year is, necessarily, a year of learning and practice. The boys have made the most of it and we will see many of them on the J. V. next year.

Even though most of the girls were new players this year, they were a spirited group with lots on the ball! We hope to have these gals and many others next year. "Our season wasn't the greatest, but wait til next year" was the cry echoed through the dressing rooms at the end of the season.

Girls' J.V. Basketball . . .

Pep talks by our coaches, laps around the gym, old buses, and floor-burned knees seem to be memories of our basketball season. Although we won only four games we were always "in there fighting" as we learned not only how to be good losers but winners as well. A large turnout at tryouts—final cuts and the butterflies before the game all contributed to a season in which we did our part toward building school spirit.

Intramural basketball provided many nights of fun and competition for the boys who participated and the fans who watched. The men's coaching staff took turns being referee. Mr. Helmbreck tried to make the game go smoothly and quickly at the same time with some hectic results. Flying tackles and body checks were sometimes the order of the day in these sharply played contests.

Varsity Baseball . . . some surprises, much hope

The team had promising hitters and several good pitchers and hoped to better last year's record of nine wins and seven losses. Coach Moeller's charges were hampered by bad weather which gave them only a few days practice outside before the first game. Every other team was in the same shape so everything started fair. The opening 3-1 loss to powerful Wakefield did nothing to lower the Rebels spirit. Head football coach Ted Keller's last job before leaving Fairfax is assistant baseball coach.

Soon grounders began to find their way into gloves, good plays, and hard hitting became second nature to the Rebellettes. The team was predominantly underclassmen who had not developed yet. There were only four Seniors this year. Versatility of individual performers was the key to success. Thin in front line men, the Rebels missed outstanding miler and co-captain Dave Dorward in the early part of the season. Dave sprained his ankle in a rut on our "track."

FEATURES...

Something to look forward to

Those good times, especially on Friday and Saturday nights, such as Homecoming when our loyal alumnae mixed in with us to show they still had some of that "old spirit" for Fairfax made the weeks merrier. The traditional Sadie Hawkins made it possible for girls to experience what boys have to go through in the dating line. At the peak of the icicle season we danced ourselves warm at the Snowball Dance. During the school year, some of our dramatic stars showed us excellent performances in the Junior and Senior plays. The Sweetheart Dance rolled around with "Cupid" getting his hand in it by shooting arrows through our hearts. The Juniors could never forget those long nights dedicated to giving the Seniors a prom to remember always. All of these features and many others were in our school year of '57-'58. The year went at a pace we thought impossible. Another year has gone by, but all of those exciting times we had, have now been stored away for memories to bring back on a distant day.

Sparkling personalities made our candidates for Homecoming queen; Judy Thompson, Queen, Tisa Piper, Marion Elliott, Betsy Isenberg, Alice Warden, and Janet Jones.

Judy Thompson became our vivacious Homecoming Queen.

Homecoming . . .

A harvest moon brought us to Fairfax High for our first real dance of the season—Homecoming. The climax of the night brought us memories of the flushed and happy queen and the fun of seeing old grads back home. The next day at the Homecoming game, we cheered wildly as we led our team on to victory. Mr. Fuller and the band performed at half-time ceremonies, topped by the presentation of the lovely queen and her court. It is these blithe moments that leave impressions in our hearts.

Charles Dominy and Judy Thompson whirling around in a world of their own.

Margaret Dodd, Barbara Davis, Stuart Richardson, Mary Dell Paquette, Alice Warden, Queen; Sharon Rupp, Janet Jones, Libby Lund, and Marion Elliott. This was a night that the queen and her court will long remember.

Sno Ball . . .

Winter . . . a sign of snow and Fairfax High's Sno Ball Dance, the social event of the season. How excited we were when the candidates for queen were announced in the auditorium! The following Saturday night brought wonderful memories for us to treasure always. The air was filled with expectation as the candidates awaited the coronation of the queen. A few moments later Alice Warden became the lovely and radiant queen. Later, as we danced to the heavenly music of the Silver Tones, we suddenly remembered that Christmas was almost here. The Sno Ball Dance would be locked in our memories for keeps.

A moment this happy queen found hard to believe.

Sharon Rupp, Runner-up; Alice Warden, Queen, and Mary Dell Paquette, Runner-up.

The cast takes a break, after hard, diligent practicing.

Senior Play . . . achieving the professional touch

A smiling crew shows hope for Berkley Square.

Haven't you forgotten something?

Two wonderful performances of Berkley Square brought many weeks of hard work and memorable rehearsals to a climax. We remember designing and painting the set, choosing beautiful costumes of the Eighteenth Century, props we couldn't get and the rushing to rehearsals every other night. But under the capable guidance of Mrs. French and the eagerness and spirit we had to produce our final play as the best one yet, our work was justified as the curtain closed for the final time on Berkley Square.

A good cast gave the Juniors credit for a wonderful play.

Junior Play . . . June Mad in December

Juniors produced an outstanding play, June Mad, to warm our hearts on a chilly winter night. Never will they forget the long nights of rehearsal and those before-curtain "butterflies" and the fun of all the committees busily preparing for opening night. They learned how much cooperation and consideration go hand in hand with each other. But the rewards paid off with a successful family comedy—and the Juniors had the experience of their first play.

Fager workers behind the scenes made a successful play.

Perky Sharon and easy-going Gale exchange smiles.

Sweetheart Dance . . . Saint Valentine's Folly

Although snow prevented us from having our dance at the designated night, we were still in the spirit of February 14 when the dance rolled around a few weeks later. We danced under red and white streamers while the dreamy music from Val Henry's Band flowed through the romantic atmosphere. All eyes were upon Gale Gibson and Sharon Rupp, a handsome couple indeed, as they became King and Queen of the gala affair.

Pretty and handsome faces made up the Sweetheart court.

Cupid surely was busy that night.

I will never remember the time that I dropped the keys in that car. I think I will do it again so you can laugh some more. I'll always remember you
